New Lead Singer Announced

The Missourians are very excited to announce the addition of Tim Louderback as the group's new Lead singer. Louderback, of El Dorado Springs, MO. was named lead as a result of the recent departure of Tim Gould.

"Tim has a wonderful God given talent and we are so blessed he is coming on board" says Missourians' baritone Troy Wade. Louderback is no rookie when it comes to Southern Gospel. Tim sang with NELT Quartet from 2005-2007 and for the past five years was the lead vocalist for Ninth Hour Quartet. He has always had a passion for singing SG and has aspirations of full time ministry. Wade continues saying, "We prayed that God would send us the right man to fill the vacancy and boy did He deliver".

"I was thrilled with the opportunity to join The Missourians. Over the last couple of years we have developed a friendship and I have always admired their ministry. I know I was smiling from ear to ear when the guys offered me the position," says Louderback.

Tim has been filling in with the group for the past several concerts and his first official concert as a member will take place in Mid-February. Please join us in welcoming Tim and his wife Carrie to The Missourians family. We look forward to introducing Tim to you in person.
